

WILSON ORDERED TO HURRY HOME FROM MEXICO

U. S. Ambassador Summoned to Washington to Discuss Crisis With the President.

It will probably come from the State Department of President Wilson.
"Ambassador Wilson was asked to return to Washington to take matters over with the administration. Naturally this can be done better at first hand than by telegram or letter."

Hold Conference Saturday.
Ambassador Wilson has been sent for to discuss whether it will be better to resume the administration's Mexican policy and recognize President Huerta or to intervene south of the border. The ambassador is expected by the day and on his conference with the President and Secretary Bryan will be decided whether the United States is plunged into a war with Mexico or whether it will continue its policy of non-interference at the risk of offending all the European nations.

Secretary Garrison left today for a transcontinental trip to inspect army camps and stations with a view, it is said, to gathering data to be used in his plan for the concentration of the army in important centers. He was accompanied by Major-General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army; Major-General James R. Alsbach, chief of the quartermaster's corps; Captain Raymond S. J. Schell and Walter H. Podge, his secretary.

The party will go to Atlanta first, and afterward to Texas City, Tex., to inspect some of the second army division. They will then proceed along the Mexican frontier to the Pacific coast.

Planned to Delay Action.

The administration had hoped to defer off any action with regard to Mexico until after the Mexican election, when it was hoped a new regime would be established in the republic which could be recognized by the United States. The general opinion here today was that this hope was destined to be dashed by direct threats. The London foreign office, it was understood, had just received notice on the day department that under the Monroe doctrine it held the United States to be the guarantor of peace in Mexico. Other European nations are expected soon to follow suit. Their ambassadors in Mexico City have recommended such action.

The situation as explained by diplomats today is, therefore, that the United States has been applied to under a doctrine which they must support at all hazards. America is generally the only civilized nation that has withheld recognition of the Huerta regime. President Taft, however, the problem along to his successor, and Wilson, desiring time far ahead of the situation, delayed action.

"Backing Down" Policy.

It was believed now that if this recognition were given the Mexican government would continue to be a "backing down" by this government and be more abrupt than ever in its treatment of American citizens in the republic. The fact that the Mexican administration officially has no standing in its relations with the United States has made it almost impossible for the United States properly to emphasize its demand for protection of Americans in the republic. Under diplomatic usage the only part of present Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson can lodge with Huerta is a "personal protest."

Mr. Bryan stated emphatically today that all of his future engagements were made subject to cancellation and that if official business required his presence in Washington he would forfeit the entire six weeks' trip he has planned. Secretary of State Bryan held a long conference with the President after the conclusion of the Cabinet meeting, and the Mexican question was further discussed at a meeting of Secretary of War Garrison and the President.

Secretary Bryan declared the administration would not announce its policy until it had been fully agreed upon and would be presented in the form of a note.

Great Britain has shown herself friendly to the Huerta administration, and last week in recognizing that government, although she knew at the time that it would embroil the United States. Great Britain is also allied by treaty with Japan, and is deeply concerned over the pending dispute with Mexico. Japan, whose gratitude with the United States has earned strained relations, has intruded itself in the good graces of the Huerta administration. The administration officials have consistently urged the recognition of Huerta government until elections and held a substantial number of people. It has been reported that any future recognition of Huerta would be made only after the latest American statement made by Wilson was after in both office.

At that time he declared his administration would seek to make a basis of guerrilla forces would require an expeditionary force of at least 25,000 men, according to the estimate of military experts.

"That it would be the greatest liability underwriting the United States has had to assume since the Civil War goes without saying. Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt announced recently that Huerta would be treated as a rebel force so that Huerta could be reduced to Vera Cruz or Tampico on short notice. It is expected that a considerable portion of the North Atlantic fleet would be ordered to Caribbean waters within the next week.

Arms Being Shipped.

The present American force along the border is widely distributed. It ranges from a point opposite Nogales in Sonora, near the Pacific coast, to Brownsville, near the Atlantic coast. Among the intermediate points at which troops are stationed are Fort Huachuca, Douglas, Ariz.; El Paso, Fort Clark, Fort Worth and Terlingua, Texas. This force, consisting almost entirely of cavalry, is so placed as to reduce to a minimum the risk of a rebellion or constitutional crisis. The shipping of arms across the border, whether in federal or constitutional crisis. The shipping of arms to small quantities constantly is going on in the direction of General Leonard Wood, who is in the United States, is as large as Germany's to police the border with complete effectiveness.

GABY DES LYS CAN WRITE HER NAME IN PEARLS MANUEL GAVE

LONDON, July 16.—Gaby des Lys claims to be the only woman in the world who can write her name in her own pearls.

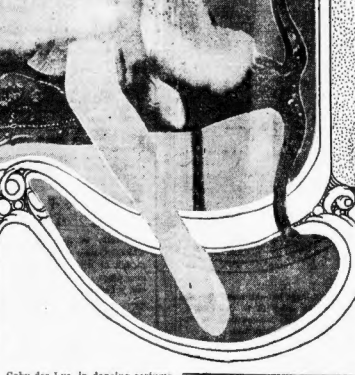

The neckless who King Manuel of Portugal gave her is so long that she can weave it about on a table so that it forms the letters of her name. That is an advantage of having a name of only ten letters. It is also—Gaby herself declares—some advantage of having a long string of pearls.

"Gaby Des Lys is a mighty pretty name—written so—made isn't it?" she asked.

The jewels have won Miss Des Lys doesn't that sound funny? "Miss Des Lys" is the nickname of "Gaby" of the fortune-teller—the "Gaby" who doesn't mind nicknames—she is the best.

MADRID, July 16.—A telegram from Tenerife today stated that Emperor William will probably pay a visit to the Canary Islands during his voyage on the new Hamburg-American liner Imperator.

JUDGES WHITE TO END 'DRUNK' AUTO DRIVING FOSS REFUSES A PARDON FOR GIRL'S SLAYER

Last month, Sylvester in his wild stunt along Nantasket ran down a boy and scored of pedestrians hurrying to safety. Miller, found by a police officer drunk as his wheel in Hull, was arrested just as he started his machine up the street.

Chief of Police Bertha of Hull John with police chiefs of Massachusetts towns is determining to tie the highways of the drunken driver.

"I don't care who the man is," says Chief Bertha, "even if he happened to be my own brother, if an officer had him drunk at the wheel, this the lookup he goes. The judges will take pretty good care now that such people as he go to the penitentiary."

Result of AMERICAN'S Work.

The decision of judges that intoxicated drivers should be given a full term, coupled with the spending of a full amount for each offender, as a result of the crusade longed by the Boston AMERICAN and heartily supported by the Highways Committee.

Chairman William is leader of the Highway Committee. He has been busy today upon his arrival from Europe to find that the judges would have all offenders of drunken drivers. Chairman Miller, right, respectively the husband of a girl sentenced upon drunken drivers as one of the ready explanations to avert accidents and preserve the safety of motorists upon the highways.

Judge Pratt has been in the city in a locally more frequented by automobiles than any other country territory in the country.

In addition to Nantasket and adjacent roads, where some 2,000 autos daily pass, the court's jurisdiction includes Abington, Whitman, Rockland, Hingham, Hull, Haver and Nahant, all favored haunts of the autoist. He said.

Judge Pratt's Warning.

I plainly indicated my attitude from the bench by this matter of drunken drivers of autos. Upon proof to me that a man is drunk while driving his machine, I'll impose a jail sentence every time. Police safety is made such a drastic remedy. A man even without his license is liable for driving an auto. In these days of high powered machines there must be at the wheel a man with all the faculties well aligned. Just a little swerve to one side, just the faintest to make a quick stop, just the building to turn on the instant and we have an accident. Pedestrians are liable to be run right on the highway as the autoist, are endangered by recklessly driven machines. And as machines are driven recklessly, so the driver is drunk. You can't get around that to explain it away or excuse it.

For 3 cents you can get 100,000 people who stand all day on the Charles River street. Get a package now and try it.

MULHALL TELLS OF FIGHT FOR TARIFF BOARD

WASHINGTON, July 16. Before being his duty goes on the stand before the Senate today investigating committee today, Colonel M. M. Mulhall declared he was "too busy" to reply to the charges of Richard Henry of New York. Mulhall said that during a conference in January, 1908, with the political managers of former Representative James A. Watson of Indiana, it was suggested that B. M. Perry become active in that State. Mulhall said this suggestion was founded upon because Perry was "too well known to the labor people."

"The National Association of Manufacturers wanted a tariff commission of which H. E. Miles of Barre, Wis., and Fred C. Schuchman of Boston should be members," said Mulhall.

"The House Market Club of Boston did not want a tariff commission," said Mulhall, "but the National Association did want one."

H. E. Miles wrote to R. E. Swaine of Richmond, Ind., which led him to contact Watson, although Miles admitted that "personally, I do not like the man, but I would like to have him succeed by a man no better in any way than I would."

The witness said that he employed Watson men to try to sway the labor vote in Watson and to spy upon labor activity.

Declares Ireland Is 'World's Show Spot'

Praise for Erin from S. D. Charles.

Returning on Laconia.

Salem D. Charles, who arrived today on the Laconia, declared Ireland, which he toured, to be the "showspot of the world." "I dined with Dillon and Redmond and several other leaders, and all of them felt confident Home Rule will win out," he said.

Colonel William D. Rohrer, chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, was with Mr. Charles. They represented Boston and the State at the recent International Road Show Conference in London, and returned today on the Laconia. Both declared that automobile traffic is going to revolutionize road building and that the road of the future will be straight.

Among the passengers on the Laconia were Sir Alexander, 22 East Indian street, with a castle in Scotland, his wife, Mrs. Mies, Dublin Workman, Worcester; Hon. T. A. Spring Rice, British minister of the Irish Republic, British Ambassador to the United States, and who has been appointed chief secretary of the British embassy in Washington; King C. Gillette, the Boston manufacturer; Professor G. A. F. Cole, the Irish geologist; Mr. and Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., and their daughters, Miss Mary Ellen and Nora Coolidge.

Colonel House Denies Mission

Arrives on Laconia and Scoffs at Mexican Stories.

Colonel E. M. House, the millionaire Texan, who has been called President Wilson's closest friend and the "man who made up Wilson's Cabinet," was a passenger on the Canadian Elcom, which docked today in Boston. Later he left to visit his daughter, Mrs. Randolph Tucker of Beverly.

Colonel House declared he does not believe the story told in Washington dispatches that Europe is forcing America's hand in Mexico. He denied he had been to Europe on a secret mission for President Wilson and also denied the contents of an anonymous letter sent to the Boston newspapers connecting his name with William Rockefeller and Hugh Wallcut, the Chicago railroad executive, as being heavily interested financially in Mexico.

Somerville Man Found Unconscious

Albert Abbott, fifty, a house finisher, was found unconscious at the bottom of the stairs in the entry of No. 21 Dane street, Somerville, early today by Pauline Jones. He was carried to the Somerville Hospital, where he regained consciousness. He could remember nothing of what happened to him. Abbott's wife lives in Providence. He resides with his daughter Ethel in the building where he was found injured. The police believe the man to be the victim of an assault.

RICH ELISHA CONVERSE ON FACTORY JOB

Converse still in hand, young Elisha R. Converse, Yale student and a millionaire son of a multi-millionaire father, steps from his Brown street home into a rubber shoe factory and tells him hours in a room where the temperature is hard by over one hundred degrees. This happens every week day and the reason of it is this:

Young Elisha is determined to learn his father's business from top to bottom, but instead of beginning at the top, he has begun to work from the bottom up.

The father is Colonel Harry R. Converse of Marion, rubber magnate and prominent politician. The factory is Edgeworth Factory No. 1, in Malden, of the Boston Rubber Shoe Company. Here is young Converse's daily routine:

Out of bed with the early bird.

Breakfast at home.

7 a. m.—At the blow of the whistle—is on the job in the factory, clad in overalls, which he dons after leaving his machine.

Noon—Lunch is brought out and the millionaire toiler eats and talks with the other workers until 1 o'clock.

2 p. m.—Ends work for the day; goes home and has his evening to himself.

Sometimes young Converse has to take the rubber shoes which he puts on the factory which he cuts off the corners of the heels. All in all his work at his heels in the dark room is considered a pretty "hot" job.

Converse's grandfather, Isaac Elisha R. Converse, was founder of the Boston Rubber Shoe Company. At his death he left his grandson $3,000,000 in his will.

AMERICAN AS USUAL

Gave First Facts of Red Sox War; Corner Boston Papers Denied Them.

NOW ALL GIVE THE "NEWS"

One week ago today the AMERICAN printed the news that there was serious trouble between President McAleer and Manager Stahl of the Red Sox. The AMERICAN's account of the trouble ended with these words:

McAleer blamed Bill Stahl for the poor standing of the team, and this, coupled with the fact that Stahl was trying to undermine McAleer, led him to declare war on the manager. He resolved to go to Chicago and have it out with the minority stockholders, and has already started on his mission. He will arrive in Chicago next Saturday and the indications are that the result will be the retirement from the club of either McAleer or Stahl.

If McAleer wins out he will continue as president and the chances are that Bill Stahl will be manager of the team. If McAleer loses his fight he will probably retire and there will be a new president.

Efforts were made immediately to discredit the AMERICAN's story. The Post said in its headline news story: "FANS' STORY STILL UNANSWERED."

Both McVey and Stahl laugh at story about trouble—McAleer says story untrue.

The Herald said: "As far as a 'war' was concerned, nothing of the sort has developed. McAleer himself, as president of the club, has been for a long time in the club, but he has been so busy with his other work that he has been unable to do more than to see that the club is run as well as he can. The Journal said: "Stahl's contract has this season to run and there is no apparent reason why he should not serve it out."

The Record said:

McAleer and Stahl.

There's no real rupture as between McAleer and Stahl and President Stahl is trying to supplant McAleer as president of the club. The Traveler which seemed to be partial to McAleer, said:

To make it appear that there is to be a "showdown" either immediate or in the near future, between President McAleer and Manager Stahl, will use or the other prominent effort and referring as would necessarily follow to equality of the actual conditions.

On July 12 the Traveler said: "Two years since Bill Stahl was making the mistake of the baseball owners. One is that he is to be traded away to the Highlanders, the other that he is to succeed Jake Stahl as boss of the Red Sox. And one of them is just about as likely as the other."

On the day following the original printing of the McAleer-Stahl story the AMERICAN said:

There may be details from McAleer and Stahl on the story printed in the AMERICAN yesterday in relation to the fight they are having or are about to have. The row is of such a nature that probably neither will care to talk much about it. Nevertheless, the facts are as stated in the AMERICAN's story.

The glowing headlines in today's paper telling of Stahl's resignation as president of the Red Sox are completely unnecessary. The AMERICAN was right a week ago and it is right today.

Mrs. Stanley P. Clements.

There are so many things that a wife should keep to herself about her own personal difficulties. When they assume such a proportion as to become matters of large dispute, they may be laid before him for his advice. But a wife does not get the confidence of her husband by running to him with all her troubles. He gets tired to this habit and only tends to please his wife, but seldom takes any interest in the result of doing.

Should Keep Much to Self.

Now it seems to me that a wife should confide in her husband about everything that concerns the happiness of the home life. If his business is poor and there must be some reinforcement on expenses, he should tell his wife and not suffer her to go blindly along running up at points that cannot be paid. It is wrong for a wife to keep her husband in the dark over the cost of things. Any effort on her part to mislead him in this respect is wrong. It is wrong for a wife to be bound to come out in future conversations. Don't keep that kind of secret from your husband.

If the wife has made a mistake in purchasing something for which she has paid a high price, don't let her give the husband the impression that it did not cost as much as it really did. Don't play truant with your husband's money.

A wife who gets the confidence of her husband is the wife who recognizes conditions just as they are. If she has made a mistake, it is better for her to make the acknowledgment before her husband than to try to hide it.

DOES TEARS WHEN HE TOOK OUTCAST GIRL

Edgar Debs, the Socialist leader, recently took a girl outcast into his home at Fort Verde, Ind., and declared she must be treated by his friends as "one of his children." Today, in an article written for the AMERICAN, he explains his action.

By EUGENE V. DEBS.

There is but one thing remarkable about spending one's home to an unfortunate young woman, and that is that it is not done by the majority of men. This fact is significant. Persecution of these unfortunate girls is the rule and not the exception that it attracts no attention. Kindness is no exception that it attracts no attention.

The sister of the streets that reflect our own guilt and shame and the cruelty of hypocrisy of the society which professes them. They are driven to prostitution, perverted and perjured upon by the police and every species of crime, and are left to rob them of the proceeds of their shame and sorrow.

Every secret woman in the daylight is a living certificate of the Christian church's denial of Jesus Christ. He did not seem and watch the crying star. He loved and pitied her, gave her new life and new hope, and rebuked without mercy the pharisees, hypocrites and the guilty of her persistence.

Jesus at the end of the sinner's plan, where the sinner woman followed him, turned in contempt from his church attending look to pour out his heart in compassion to the unweaned stranger.

No man who refuses to open his heart and his heart in an unfortunate and persecuted woman is a follower of Jesus Christ. He may cry "Lord, Lord," but he is a hypocrite.

The real light district is a direct challenge to the Christian church. What Christ would do is proved by what he did when he came out and met the prostitutes and hypocrites, led by high priests, all of whom as the law forbade and great show of religious process accompanied to him, and he indignantly crucified as a felon.

The church of today is no less full of

What Do You Know About the Ice Trust?

If you have information of any ice trust, if you know of any undue raise in price or any unjust discrimination on the part of any ice dealer, if you know anything of a combination to raise or maintain prices or to divide territory.

hypocrisy and false pretenses. It does not value rich hypocrites and pour out its love to poor sinners, as the Christ did when he falsely professed to follow. There is a deep underlying cause for the secret scourge of modern society. Tremendous forces are now recruiting the countless army of sinful women and men. This class is recruited and these forces turned to constructive instead of destructive purposes.

The Red Sox will play their first game under the management of Bill Carrigan against the Tigers here today. Carrigan will probably direct the team from the bench as Joe Wood is scheduled to pitch the opener and Bill Carrigan will be the manager.

The Detroit fans are anxious to see Carrigan succeed. They have already "regaled him as a scrapper and a bawdy baseball player, and he is sure to give a worthy response today.

Today's game will be the first of a series of four, and it appears as though the Red Sox were to face some tough opposition. The showing made by the Tigers against the Athletics has given them confidence, as they took the majority of the game from the "Workman" Joe Mauer, who has shown a real revolutionary pitcher to the Red Sox will pitch for Detroit today.

Tommy Murphy Proves Freak of the Ring

At Age of Twenty-eight, Gotham Lightweight
Has Chance to Win Title

By JACK CONWAY.

TOMMY MURPHY, at the age of twenty-eight, proves that he can win the world's lightweight championship. The recent New York fighter, who is spending a few days with friends in East Boston, declared today that he does not know of a 135-pound boxer in the world whom he is unable to defeat.

Murphy is one of the freaks of the ring. He has been fighting for over a dozen years and has won over a hundred battles and is still performing better today than he was five years ago. All of a high class in boxing, he is a real athlete.

Murphy was supposed to be all in for the fight on March 20, 1915, but was knocked out in one round by "Knockout" Brown of New York. Healing critics and "fans" all over the country declared that Tommy had sold his soul, and that he would be selling away if he quit the ring.

WANT GOOD BY FIGHT.
TWO New Yorkers, however, thought differently. He attributed Brown's win to a chance blow and kept him in the ring. He showed well and won the fight. The Chicago crowd was awarded the decision after twenty rounds of hard fighting, but Murphy gave him the surprise of his life.

Murphy discovered in his bout with McParland that he was a long distance fighter, and decided that he would remain on the coast. He was signed to meet "One Hundred" Hogan, who was then known as a champion, and the result ended in a draw.

The former fighter later joined the athletic A. C. and continued the former featherweight champion, who was then on the decline.

Tommy's work on the coast was for his money and fame, and he was in demand by promoters. After his great battle with Woodard, he was known as the opponent for Little, but the champion declined to meet him.

But, at the time he is "fighting" in California, and as a consequence, Ritchie thought that Rivers would be a better drawing card than Murphy.

WOULD CAREY FIGHT TO CHAMP.
RITCHIE CAREY, who is a New York fighter, is the only one who has not yet fought Murphy. He is known as the "beat little" and says that when he is pitted against a rough fighter he has a chance to win. He is a real fighter and is a real athlete.

WOULD BOX IN BOSTON.
He would like to see Tommy in a bout at the A. C. Club. The Chicago crowd would like to see the writer to see if he could beat him. He is a real fighter and is a real athlete.

WAS IN AFTER MURPHY.
JOE FALAN, the popular South Boston fighter, is not on the list of fighters. He is a real fighter and is a real athlete.

MURPHY CAN MAKE WEIGHT.
FALAN and Murphy have been rivals for some time. Each boxer has a following in South Boston, and a contest between them would be a real draw.

TOP WINSTON is wanted at this
WINSTON is a real fighter and is a real athlete.

M'Aler Gives Sox Lecture in Detroit

Bill Carrigan Takes U. Helm Today; Stahl Angry at Disposal

PORTLAND, O., July 16.—M'Aler, president of the Northwestern club, is not in full sympathy with Carrigan and manager of the world's champion White Sox of 1906, today admitted he had received $25,000 to manage the Detroit Red Sox. He will not serve, he said, and added:

"There is another American League team in the field for a new manager."

While Jack Stahl, president of the Red Sox, is planning to return to Boston to get his business, President M'Aler in Detroit today, is giving the players a "lecture" with an object he expects them to do under (archer) Bill Carrigan, their new manager, when they meet the Tigers this afternoon.

President M'Aler, who is supposed to be the "big man" in the game, is in the city after a stormy week in which he has been told Carrigan is the only one who can handle the team. He is expected to stay with the team until it returns to Boston, and to have a "lecture" with Carrigan.

M'Aler Describes Meeting.
Stahl called at my hotel and wanted to know how he stood with the club for next year.

I informed him that unless he was able to play ball he would be of little use to the club, as I did not think any man well of his handling of the team this year, and thought I was doing my duty to let him know if he had given up the playing end of the game, he was entitled to that it would be an effort to handle the team for the rest of the season, and that he might as well get on his way.

Stahl was angry, but to the Boston club and the conditions were talked over, as Stahl is a manager, and naturally wanted to retire before the season is the end of the season. He is not a manager.

Session Was Stormy.
Bill M'Aler and Stahl gave ample evidence of the stormy session. Stahl had hard work keeping his temper. M'Aler called to the reporters at Chicago and remarked:

"I told these newspaper men that I let you go for the good of the club, as I thought."

"As you thought," remarked Stahl. "You, yes, as I thought," remarked M'Aler. Stahl said "No." His face was flushed, but he said:

M'Aler didn't want me, and I

PILGRIMS CLOSE SERIES AGAINST PIRATES TODAY

Today's battle at the South End grounds where the Pilgrims close their series with the Pirates, will very probably be a battle of southpaws, with Trice prevailing for the locals and Robinson for the visitors.

Yesterday's battle, which went eleven innings before the locals were finally put down and out, was on a par with the other games which have been played by the two teams. Today's contest promises to keep right in line, for the Stalions will try to even up matters, while the Pirates have the pennant battle and will let nothing slide.

The crowd appreciates the fighting spirit shown by the Pilgrims and the attendance figures this day are much better than they have been for many weeks. Unless the team slumps badly, it is safe to say that all records for attendance for the past half dozen years will be broken.

BOSTON AMERICAN PRIZES FOR VACATION PHOTOS

The Boston AMERICAN today offers $100 in prizes to amateur photographers for pictures taken at the beach, on the mountains or on the lakes.

No wide experience with the camera is necessary to take part in this competition. The vacation resorts offer many interesting studies for the camera fiend, and an amateur's snap at some subject out of the ordinary, because of its unusual beauty or peculiar interest, will stand as much chance in the contest as the studied effort of an experienced operator. The contest begins today and will close September 1. The prizes are:

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JULY 16, 1913.
LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND, DAILY AND SUNDAY

A Convincing Object Lesson of the Result of Neglecting Reciprocity

If the American Congress, stringing out a long Summer in elaborate tariff discussion, cannot be moved to practical legislation by the strong statement and the positive action of Governor Foss of Massachusetts then common sense has taken a vacation from American politics.

It is no ordinary, discouraged business man who has bundled up his possessions and moved them from the United States to Canada because our tariff laws make his business unprofitable and impossible.

Governor Foss is a big, broad citizen—one of the great men of the Republic, a pillar of the Democratic party, a seriously considered candidate for President of the United States. He has been a student and a leader in the forward economic movement of today, and has his great State behind him without regard to party. If it were only his pride of opinion offended by our tariff conditions, Governor Foss would certainly accept their conditions and continue his fight for better conditions.

But when a representative American statesman and business man deliberately folds his tent and takes part of his business out of his own country because he cannot dispose of all his products under his country's laws, it is time that the men at Washington who make our laws should realize that it is a serious business condition and not an economic theory that confronts us.

Scores of business men in America have already done what Governor Foss has done. Many business men will do so in the future, since such a man as Governor Foss has been driven by our tariff laws to leave his country for another country with a wiser tariff.

Governor Foss has no delusions as to the tariff conditions that exile his business from the country. Nor has he any doubt whatever that the Reciprocity principle would save his business and the business of other manufacturers as well as promote the prosperity of the consumers. He states it tersely and truly:

"American manufacturers have completely filled the American market and their production now is greatly in excess of the domestic demand. Under these conditions the expansion of their domestic plants is impossible, and it is becoming necessary for them to curtail production."

TRADE EXPANSION IS NOT ONLY DESIRABLE, IT IS A NECESSITY. And Reciprocity is coming more and more to be the life of trade. It is the golden mean of trade between the high tariff of exclusion and the free trade of prodigality.

It is all well enough for other countries that we open our markets free to them. And the foreign imports will come rolling in under that lavish arrangement. But what of our own products, raw and manufactured? What is to become of them when they better themselves in vain against the bars of foreign tariffs. If they could make reciprocal trade arrangements under our tariff laws for their surplus products the industries could remain at home and grow. If they cannot they will pack up and go away—as Governor Foss is doing. Mr. Hearst on the 13th day of last September told the London Standard and called to the AMERICAN:

If we sacrifice our protective policy we sacrifice our one opportunity to lower the tariff bars of foreign countries. IT IS ONLY BY RECIPROCITY THAT THE TARIFF BARS OF FOREIGN COUNTRIES CAN BE LOWERED.

If we maintain our protective fence we can say to foreign countries: "We will lower our bars to your products if you will lower your bars to our products." But if we have no tariff fences we can make no such beneficial bargain.

How true that statement was then and is now Governor Foss and hundreds of American manufacturers and consumers know today and will know better hereafter.

Upon this line the Hearst newspapers have literally "fought it out all Summer." There is no other way to accomplish this necessary expansion of our trade and prosperity, of our producers and manufacturers than by Reciprocity. Free trade surely will not do. Protection of the old type will not do it. It is absolutely necessary that we should have something to trade on with every nation that has something to sell us, and with every nation to which we have something to sell.

Governor Foss has furnished to the Sixty-third Congress a practical illustration of the necessity of the principle for which the AMERICAN has fought. It is an illustration that is likely to have a thousand repetitions. It is a challenge to the economic intelligence of Congress. It is a challenge to the common sense of the President. Canada under the policy we argue for is increasing proportionately both in population and in business more rapidly than we are. This Reciprocity principle is both Democratic and Republican. It was declared by Thomas Jefferson and it was endorsed by McKinley and Blaine.

Both Republicans and Democrats have forsworn the faith of the founders.

Instead of inviting customers by mutually beneficial trade agreements, the Republican policy would exclude foreign trade.

Instead of making tariff concessions only to those countries which would join us in trade agreements, the Democratic policy, says Governor Foss, would tear down the protecting walls of our tariff on all sides and surrender indiscriminately to foreign competition the American market with its hundred million buyers—by far the most valuable market in the world!

On October 10, 1912, Mr. Hearst called the AMERICAN from Paris, words whose face and common sense must be strikingly apparent now—

To secure and insure such scientific modification of the American tariff I beg most respectfully to suggest the following course:

First, the abandonment of all old stock free-trade arguments based upon fallacies and upon exploded theories and upon premises which have been proven to be false by the practical and unprofitable experiences of free trade nations like England.

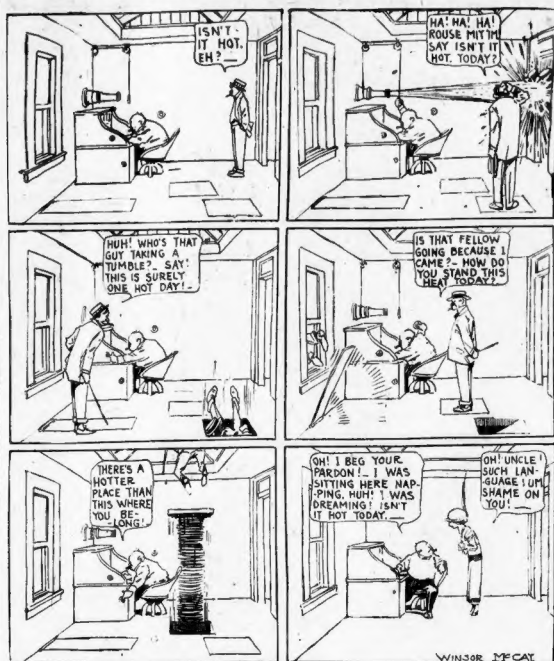

Second, the recognition of the principle of protection of American industries and the wise and just application of that principle to those industries which require and deserve protection.

Third, the modification of the protective tariff on the one hand by reciprocity, which will open the markets of foreign nations to our products in return for the opening of our markets to their products, and on the other hand by preferential duties which will reduce the tariff on goods imported into the United States in American ships.

All of these policies are Democratic and have the sanction of Democratic precedent; but, more essential than that, they are patriotic. They are policies which will develop the manufactures of the nation and the general prosperity of the nation. They are policies which through increased production and increased commerce and transportation and increased employment and payment will benefit every individual in the nation.

We have the best products, the best machinery and the most skillful workmen in the world. WHAT WE NEED IS RECIPROCITY AND SHIPS!

Being a Good Neighbor. Not Only When Prosperity and Popularity Make It Easy to Be One, but When Trouble and Adversity Test the Worth of Real Neighbors

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX
Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal Examined

RE you a good neighbor?

A What is a good neighbor? Perhaps you are a royal good shun with the popular people of your town; you show them all sorts of courtesies, and you rejoice in all their successes, and you defend them against envy and malice. That is part of the good neighbor's duty.

But how do you conduct yourself if they get into trouble?

Are You Ready to Stand by Them in Poverty and Sorrow?

Are you ready to stand by them in poverty and sorrow as faithfully as in prosperity and popularity?

Will you be the last to censure, even if compelled to believe, when you hear they have made grievous mistakes? It is not a good neighbor's or a good Christian's place to deny facts or condone crime. If you know your neighbor has outraged the morals or broken the commandments you are not to make yourself ridiculous by saying he is an innocent or injured individual.

But if you are a good neighbor you will think of his family, and you will not be afraid to show your friendship.

You will not be afraid to say to the offender: "I am sorry for you; begin over, and start a new life." And you will be brave enough to help him to do it.

Again, are you a good neighbor only in time of trouble? There are many such people to be found in country places. They are filled with envy of another's success. They show it by keeping aloof and assuming a cold or indifferent manner.

They try to find some law to pick in the popular or successful neighbor; they begrudge him all his pleasures and his triumphs; but let him fall sick or lose his money or a child or wife, and they will fly to his rescue.

They will show him sympathy in his misery where they begrudged him congratulations in his happiness.

This is admirable in a way, yet not altogether admirable quality.

If you are this type of good neighbor do not take pride in it.

It indicates that you are filled with envy of another's success, and that you like to bestow favors in order to prove that you are in a superior position, rather than from a spirit of pure brotherly love.

Pure Brotherly Love the Spirit of the Really Good Neighbor

If the latter spirit dominates you, then indeed you would be the really good neighbor, who rejoices in his brother's hour of pleasure and sorrow in his day of adversity.

It is a curious fact that hundreds of people will flock to a man when sickness and death enter his home and offer him every kind of attention and give the greatest proofs of unselfish regard for him who have encountered in his times of prosperity and pleasure been thorns in his flesh.

It is, of course, more admirable to treat a man kindly who is down than when he is up; but if you have nobility enough in your nature to treat him kindly at all times, but when you wait to show your good neighborliness until disease or sorrow has opened his door, you are, in a certain measure, placing yourself with the birds of prey who follow the death and disease and not with the songbirds who sing him in the sunlit moments of his summer.

A Good Neighbor Never Intrudes; He Is Ready When Needed

A good neighbor is never jealous; he never envies; he never flatters; he never envies another's success; he congratulates him sincerely when happiness and prosperity are his; he sympathizes sincerely when trouble and sorrow are at his door, and he encourages him to live down error and to start anew when he has made mistakes.

He makes his neighbor realize that he is at his command when needed, but he does not obtrude himself either in his joys or sorrows.

Are you a good neighbor?

Our Happy Little Battleships

By E. P. COHEN

Official.

Washington, April 1, 1914.

General Order No. 13.

Jointly by the Departments of State, the Navy and Commerce and Labor.

THE armament of the ships of the United States Navy having been removed in the effort to preserve universal peace, this further order, to take effect immediately, is issued to promote foreign commerce.

Battleship Florida will proceed from San Francisco to the most convenient port of Alaska with a cargo of refrigerators and electric fans.

Battleship Delaware, having been converted into a tank steamer, from Los Angeles to Bordeaux with a load of grape juice.

Flagship Wyoming, from Portland, Me., to Annapolis, Honduras, with 400,000 bunches of bananas.

Battleship Utah, from Mare Island, Navy Yard, Philadelphia, to Greenland with half a million tons of artificial ice and 3,000,000,000 yards of mosquito netting.

Battleship North Dakota, from Brooklyn Navy Yard to Liberia with 3,000 tons of face powder and 40,000 dozen pairs of flesh-colored (black) stockings.

Battleship Arkansas, from New London, Ct., to Havana with a cargo of near-tobacco.

Battleship Georgia, from Puget Sound to Tennessee with 1,000,000 cages of canary birds.

Battleship Louisiana, from New York to Beyrouth, Syria, India or her capacity with Fourth Avenue (N. Y.) rugs.

Armored cruiser California, from Guantanamo, Cuba, to Sierra Leone, West Coast of Africa, with 10,000 bales of buffalo robes and 100,000 gross of fur gloves.

Supply ship Glacier will proceed from Bath, Me., to Charleston, S. C., take on a cargo of stores and sail, under sealed orders, to —, where she will go out of commission.

Submarine C-2 will take on a load of Medford Rum and hasten to a Scotch port. This mission must be kept under cover; the submarine C-2 is chosen for it because of her highly appropriate name.

It is scarcely necessary to remind the officers of the United States Navy that this general order, which outlines this government's policy, must be carried out with their accustomed speed, skill and efficiency.

The Shameful Patrol-Wagon Arresting of Little Children Has Got to Stop and STOP NOW

Whoever is to blame for the arrest in a patrol wagon of little children in Somerville, following a complaint against their father by the Society for the PREVENTION of Cruelty to Children, the AMERICAN hopes such cruelty as this WILL NOT BE EXHIBITED AGAIN IN MASSACHUSETTS.

The mother of these young people was in a tuberculosis camp. The eldest daughter, nineteen, was housekeeper and homemaker. The society alleged that the children were being neglected, and were GROWING UP WITHOUT EDUCATION.

The complaint against the father, who seven nights a week washes carriages in a livery stable for $15 a week, will be heard in the Somerville Court on August 7.

Assuming—as we have no right to do—that this father is everything the Society for the PREVENTION of Cruelty to Children says he is, we say at the same time that there is absolutely NO excuse for the way his INNOCENT CHILDREN have been humiliated.

You, sir, were a boy of thirteen once, eager, ambitious, proud of your standing among your associates in school.

You can sympathize, then, with this O'Neil boy, who was "helping Teacher arrange the schoolroom plants when the police patrol wagon clanged along the door and a uniformed policeman rapped at the door to ask for "Master O'Neil."

And once, dear lady, YOU were a little girl of eleven. YOU know the heartburnings of this little girl in Somerville, who was taken from her schoolroom and placed in the Black Maria alongside her brothers. YOU can imagine the distress of the nineteen-year-old housekeeper, when "the wagon" came to the house to take the rest of her flock, including a two-year-old sister.

Small wonder that fathers and mothers in Somerville talk of a mass meeting of public protest! GREATER wonder that the protest is not as long and as broad as the Commonwealth!

"Don't blame me," says the agent of the society, "blame the police. THEY picked the patrol wagon as the conveyance for this job. They might have got the children before or after school."

"Don't blame the police," says the Mayor of Somerville, "THEY had no choice of vehicles. The patrol wagon is ALL THEY HAVE."

"We did NOTHING UNUSUAL," says the police captain who sent the wagon out, intimating, you see, that "WE WOULD DO THE SAME THING OVER AGAIN."

The Mayor of Somerville, IF HE IS AS BIG AS HIS JOB, will say to this splendid specimen of a police captain that he MUST "OT DO IT AGAIN. If the Mayor of Somerville DOES NOT SAY THIS to the Somerville police captain, the parents of Somerville should SAY IT THEIR MAYOR, and say it with emphasis.

And the Society for the PREVENTION of Cruelty to Children should either live up to the promise of its long name or GET A NEW NAME.

To societies and mayors and police captains generally, the AMERICAN, speaking for every grownup in Massachusetts, serves notice that the shameful patrol-wagon arresting of LITTLE CHILDREN, because their FATHERS are under suspicion, has got to stop and STOP NOW.
